

Spencer Brint

19/03/2014

CAP3032

Iteration 2 Summary

The concrete goals I will be pursuing for the next iteration are the implementation of the data, clickable squares, and possibly a change of color between the first and last placements of the squares. I need to figure out how to have the square show up, and then be clickable. Once I know that, I'll be able to begin figuring out how to attribute data and subsequently words to the sketch. I will be implementing PFont for that section. I want the squares to be clicked and then have another window show up with the country's name, rank, and score for that category. If I can figure this out, I will be adding a color gradient from square 1 to the end square going from blue to red.